Tiny Countries Fear Berlin May Violate Neutrality In Attack On England

By International News Service
Apparent signs that the European war is increasing in tempo, with a possibility of a sudden determined German attack against England, occupied the attention of both belligerent and neutral nations today.

French claims of victory in the first major aerial battle on the Western Front, serious apprehension in Belgium and Holland, and renewed activity by Soviet Russia and the Communist Internationale all pointed to the conclusion that the conflict may be entering a bloodier and more decisive phase.

One of the most significant developments today was news of a lengthy meeting at the Hague between Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and Leopold, King of the Belgians.

The rulers of the two neutral countries caught in a geographic trap between warring England, France and Germany, discussed their situation and the dangers they face in the event of any sudden German "blitzkrieg" against Great Britain or violation of their own neutrality.

Both Cite Seriousness

Reliable reports indicated that both Wilhelmina and Leopold consider the international situation extremely serious as far as Belgium and Holland are concerned. Belgium has ample reason to worry because the memory of her experiences in 1914 is still fresh. In addition, Holland fears that Germany may violate her neutrality as means of establishing bases for air raids against the heart of England.

While an official communiqué said merely that Leopold and Wilhelmina "exchanged views over some aspects of the international situation," a dispatch from Copenhagen told of rumors that the Dutch and Belgian military staffs might hold an immediate conference.

At Brussels, however, a spokesman said:

GRAND JURORS GATHER NOV. 20

Judge And Prosecutor Act To Reduce Population In County Jail

The Pickaway County Grand Jury will convene Monday, November 20, at 9 a. m. The date was set Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger.

In an entry filed ordering the jury to report the judge explained that many criminal cases have been filed for consideration since the last session and many of the defendants are in the county jail and being maintained at the expense of the county.

George E. Gerhardt, county prosecutor, said 13 cases are listed to date for consideration. The lineup includes the following type of cases: assault and battery, two; non support, one; breaking and entering, one; reckless operation, one; larceny, one; auto larceny, two; grand larceny, two; safebreaking, one; issuing check with insufficient funds, one, and stabbing with intent to wound, one.

SHIPPING LINES TO CHANGE FLAG TO CARRY ARMS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Transfer of eight United States lines steamships from American to Panamanian registry, effecting their complete escape from the new cash-and-carry Neutrality Act, appeared today to be only a matter of hours.

Amid rising congressional criticism and demands for investigation, one of the lines' two highest executives told International News Service that they would meet all requirements laid down by the Federal Maritime Commission for the transfer.

When the switch is completed these boats, owned by the United States lines but flying the Panama Republic flag and under international law then foreign boats, may haul arms or any other cargo available, across the Atlantic and into the ports of warring nations—if they don't get blown up by a submarine or a mine on the way.

The boats involved in the proposed transfer are seven 7,500 ton cargo boats, and the 13,869 ton President Roosevelt. They are all old boats—built shortly after the war. On these particular boats the U. S. lines owe the government no money, and the lines have agreed to build additional tonnage under American registry to make up for the transfer.

ARGUMENT OVER 25 CENTS ENDS IN KNIFE AFFRAY

Mrs. Richard Dawson Injured; Half-Brother Pleads Guilty To Cutting Charges

Suffering from a knife wound in the left chest near the heart, Mrs. Lenora Dawson, 29, of 142 East Mill Street, was reported to be in "fair" condition Tuesday in Berger Hospital. Mrs. Dawson, police say, was stabbed by her half-brother, Howard McCafferty, 42, also of the Mill Street address, during an argument over 25 cents, said to be McCafferty's share of a chimney repair expense.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Dawson, wife of Richard (Slim) Dawson, would recover barring infection.

McCafferty, charged by Police Chief W. F. McCrady, with cutting with intent to wound, pleaded guilty when arraigned Tuesday in Mayor W. B. Cady's court and was remanded to the county jail in default of $3,000 bond to await the next session of the grand jury.

Dr. V. D. Kerns, who treated Mrs. Dawson's injury, said the puncture wound made with a knife that had a four-inch blade was an inch wide and three inches deep. The physician said the blade did not penetrate any vital organs.

McCafferty was quoted by police as saying: "I done a pretty good job."

Chief McCrady, who with Officer Fred Fitzpatrick investigated the affair, said he was told that Mrs. B. O. Walton, also of Mill Street, had asked McCafferty for 25 cents to help pay for repairs to a chimney. An argument resulted, the chief was told, and McCafferty was ordered by Mrs. Dawson to leave the house. The chief said McCafferty told him his half-sister started after him with a sickle. McCafferty, the chief said, had some minor cuts on the face, but they did not appear to have been caused by a sickle.

Police took Mrs. Dawson to the hospital. She was admitted about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Officers said Mrs. Walton is the mother of both Mrs. Dawson and McCafferty.

HUNTERS READY FOR TREK INTO GAME DISTRICTS

Between 450,000 and 500,000 hunters, including several hundred from Circleville and Pickaway County, polished and oiled their guns Tuesday in preparation for the rabbit, pheasant and Hungarian partridge season which opens at noon Wednesday.

As the hunters impatiently awaited the deadline, reports from the northwestern and central portions of the state indicated that game plentifully lurked in the heavy grass and thickets. The State Conservation Division declared that most of the huntersmen, on the first day anyhow, should have plenty of opportunities to test their aim.

With the 1939 season came the staggered system of hunting. Only on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays will sportsmen be allowed to take the field in quest of game. After the last day in November, however, rabbit hunting will be continued on a daily basis until January 1.

Shooting pheasants or partridges is illegal after November 30. Road blockades, used in the past to ferret out bag limit law violators have been abolished. Thus, the hunter will not be submitted to an annoying search as he drives home from the hunting grounds.

FRANCE CLAIMS VICTORY IN AIR

Nine Nazi Messerschmidt Planes Downed By War Ships Built In U. S.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Celebrating the first major aerial victory on the Western Front, Paris went almost delirious with joy today over official French claims that nine German planes had brought down an equal number of German craft over the Rhine-Moselle sector.

The victory was announced in an official communiqué last night, which said that the nine French planes had engaged 27 German invading planes, shooting down one each, and escaping themselves without a loss.

Today it was revealed beyond question that all nine of the French planes which engaged in the battle were American-made Curtiss craft.

Their nine victims all were Germany's famed Messerschmidt fighters.

The joy in Paris, expressed by highest officials and ordinary citizens, can scarcely be described. Nor, according to the French, can the significance of the victory be over-estimated.

It is now held that the dreaded Messerschmidt fighting planes, which have been the terror of (Continued on Page Two)

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—If Fritz Kuhn, leader of the anti-Semitic German-American Bund, can't have his trial postponed, he wants an all-Jewish jury to try him, he announced today through his lawyer.

"My client wants an all-Jewish jury because the Jews have been persecuted for centuries and know what persecution is," said Kuhn's lawyer, Peter L. F. Sabbatino. "They are the only ones who could give a persecuted man a fair trial."

Unless he wins a postponement or a change of venue, Kuhn is to go on trial Thursday on a charge of embezzling $15,548 from the Bund.

Two Other Ohio Questions Receive Attention From Big Electorate

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—The Bigelow "550-at-60" pension amendment served as a magnet to attract an unusually large number of early voters to the polls today, as Ohioans voted on this and three other statewide issues and elected city and village officials.

Election boards in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Youngstown and other representative towns reported heavy voting from the time the polls opened at 6:30 a. m. to remain open until 6:30 p. m.

Several boards advised state election officials that the vote the first few hours was three to four times as heavy as ordinarily in off-years. No state officials were being elected, but because of the highly controversial Bigelow pension plan a record vote of 2,500,000 was anticipated.

The voting proceeded in an orderly manner. Secretary of State Earl Griffith received a wire from W. C. Brown, Republican campaign manager in Steubenville declaring that there had been one election killing and that "feeling was running high," but the sheriff and election board officials in Steubenville said there were no election disturbances and that the shooting of one William Calabrese had nothing to do with the voting.

The voters of Ohio were deciding the fate of an old age pension proposal which proponents say would cost $60,000,000 a year, but which opponents contend would cost $310,000,000 and bankrupt the state government.

Offered as a constitutional amendment by the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati Democratic ex-congressman and minister, the pension plan aroused such intense interest that local counties in Ohio's 110 cities and 750 villages were shoved far into the background.

State election officials, anticipating a record off-year vote of 2,500,000, believed that by midnight the outcome of the Bigelow (Continued on Page Two)

COLUMBUS SHOW GIRL NAMED AS JUDGE'S FRIEND

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The New York Journal-American today announced that June Brice, native of Columbus, O., and long-missing showgirl friend of the vanished Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Carter, has been found by a Journal-American reporter in the Pilgrim state hospital at Brentwood, Long Island, where she has been confined since November, 1936.

Miss Brice, known also as Mrs. Winthrop Covell and by her real name of Jennie Rosalie Holstein, the Journal-American said, was confined at the Manhattan state hospital on Ward's island for a full year before entering Pilgrim state hospital.

She was described by the Journal-American as "a rambling, incoherent patient." She is the key witness in attempts of Emil K. Ellis, attorney for Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz, former wife of the missing jurist, to prove that Judge Crater died by violence.

NAZIS ANNOYED BY NEIGHBORS' FAILURE TO OPPOSE BRITAIN

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Nazi Germany stiffened in her attitude toward the neutral powers of Western Europe today.

Official spokesmen rapped their "weakness" in defending sovereign shipping rights against the British blockade and deprecated the real importance of last night's meeting between King Leopold of Belgium and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland at the Hague.

Beneath the official attitude there was an undercurrent of German annoyance over the City of Flint affair and with Belgium's protest regarding German airplane activities. In addition, there was some uneasiness over the war's stalemate and a resurgence of rumors that some showdown was imminent.

The knowledge of heavy troop concentrations on both sides of the Franco-German frontier lent impetus to the latter reports, but opinion in neutral circles was divided as to whether any forthcoming German blow would fall against England alone or in conjunction with sweeping military movements elsewhere, including the Balkans.

Some observers were inclined to be skeptical over the entire matter, attributing the rumors and reports to a revival of the now famous European "war of nerves."

Holland Lax, Charge

As regards the neutrals, official quarters expressed disappointment that Holland had been lax in defending her rights against Britain. The latter's "ruthless interference" with neutral shipping, as exemplified by detention of Dutch ships in English ports for weeks at a time, official quarters said, should have drawn vigorous counter-measures or at least brought the neutrals together in a common front.

These circles branded Holland as a "meek prey" to the British, and stated that the Dutch should long ago have made a test case out of some act of inference by Britain.

There seemed to be little question that the German attitude was dictated largely by Belgium's protest, charging that five German planes had crossed Belgian territory on Sunday. The Dutch were reported to have made a similar protest.

AMERICAN SHIP, NOW IN OCEAN, GIVEN WARNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A thinly-veiled warning from the Berlin short-wave station DXB to the American freighter Black Gull of the Black Diamond lines which left New York Saturday shortly before the present Neutrality Act became effective reverberated along the air waves today.

"The American ship Black Gull takes a big chance," the announcer said. "She has sailed from New York for Belgium and Holland at her own risk with a cargo of contraband."

The statement was made in German but was not repeated in the English news broadcast which followed.

MAYOR'S RACE, THREE SPECIAL SUBJECTS DRAW

Nearly 1,000 Persons Cast Votes At 12 O'clock In Off-Year Election

EARLY RETURNS EXPECTED

Precincts Find More Time Being Taken For Study Of Various Issues

Reports from city precincts at noon Tuesday indicated heavy voting in the off-year election which is featured by special issues. The total vote cast in city precincts at 12 o'clock noon was 936. In 1937 the total vote cast for mayoralty candidates was 2,913. Precinct workers expected the voting during the afternoon to be brisk. In 1931, an off-year election, the vote at 1 p. m. was 1,131. Voters are spending more time in the booths this year than in many years, precinct workers observed. In Circleville they have four ballots for consideration, the ticket for city offices, township officials, local question and issues ticket and the state question and issues ticket.

Lawrence Johnson, clerk of the board of elections, predicted the tabulation on the city offices and city issues would be completed by 11 p. m. All precinct workers have received instructions to make their first count on the state issues. These reports are to be telephoned to the board of elections and will be submitted in groups of 10 to the secretary of state. There are 40 precincts in the county.

After completing the tabulation on the state issues the city poll workers will start counting votes on local issues and the candidates. All Precincts to Report. All reports of the city precincts will be submitted to the board of elections as early as possible Tuesday night. It was expected the majority of the rural districts and villages would report Wednesday.

Votes in the city precincts at noon were: First Ward A, 121; B, 72; C, 97, and D, 60; Second Ward A, 112; B, 87; Third Ward A, 99; B, 72; Fourth Ward A, 50; B, 55, and C, 111.

There are only two party contests in Circleville. These are between Mayor W. B. Cady, Democrat, seeking reelection, opposed by B. T. Hedges, Republican, Circleville Township justice of peace, and John Himrod, Democrat, seeking reelection as treasurer with Harry Gard, Republican, as his opponent.

Three Questions Up. Three local issues drawing the attention of voters are renewal of the three mill levy for school purposes, a change to a charter form of government and a $20,000 bond issue for an addition to Berger Hospital.

State issues included a proposed amendment to the constitution setting up a state board of education that would have the power to name the director of the department, the two Bigelow amendments, and a proposed referendum to keep the administration-sponsored civil service "ripper bill" from becoming a law.

One Bigelow amendment would assure monthly pensions of $50 to single persons and $80 to married couples over 60 years of age provided they are not gainfully employed. The other would reduce to 100,000 the number of signatures necessary to assure an initiated vote on any state issue.

DEATH OF FOUR MINERS IN BLAST BRINGS PROBE

MULLENS, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Death of four miners and serious injury to another in a mine explosion prompted an investigation today by officials of the Brule-Smokey Coal Company. The blast occurred yesterday at the company's workings at Otsego, three miles from Mullens.

A preliminary inquiry indicated the explosion was due to ignition of an accumulation of gas, it was stated. Ninety-five other men working in the mine escaped without injuries.

NAZIS ANNOYED BY NEIGHBORS' FAILURE TO OPPOSE BRITAIN

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Nazi Germany stiffened in her attitude toward the neutral powers of Western Europe today.

Official spokesmen rapped their "weakness" in defending sovereign shipping rights against the British blockade and deprecated the real importance of last night's meeting between King Leopold of Belgium and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland at the Hague.

Beneath the official attitude there was an undercurrent of German annoyance over the City of Flint affair and with Belgium's protest regarding German airplane activities. In addition, there was some uneasiness over the war's stalemate and a resurgence of rumors that some showdown was imminent.

The knowledge of heavy troop concentrations on both sides of the Franco-German frontier lent impetus to the latter reports, but opinion in neutral circles was divided as to whether any forthcoming German blow would fall against England alone or in conjunction with sweeping military movements elsewhere, including the Balkans.

Some observers were inclined to be skeptical over the entire matter, attributing the rumors and reports to a revival of the now famous European "war of nerves."

Holland Lax, Charge

As regards the neutrals, official quarters expressed disappointment that Holland had been lax in defending her rights against Britain. The latter's "ruthless interference" with neutral shipping, as exemplified by detention of Dutch ships in English ports for weeks at a time, official quarters said, should have drawn vigorous counter-measures or at least brought the neutrals together in a common front.

These circles branded Holland as a "meek prey" to the British, and stated that the Dutch should long ago have made a test case out of some act of inference by Britain.

There seemed to be little question that the German attitude was dictated largely by Belgium's protest, charging that five German planes had crossed Belgian territory on Sunday. The Dutch were reported to have made a similar protest.

AMERICAN SHIP, NOW IN OCEAN, GIVEN WARNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A thinly-veiled warning from the Berlin short-wave station DXB to the American freighter Black Gull of the Black Diamond lines which left New York Saturday shortly before the present Neutrality Act became effective reverberated along the air waves today.

"The American ship Black Gull takes a big chance," the announcer said. "She has sailed from New York for Belgium and Holland at her own risk with a cargo of contraband."

The statement was made in German but was not repeated in the English news broadcast which followed.

MAYOR'S RACE, THREE SPECIAL SUBJECTS DRAW

Nearly 1,000 Persons Cast Votes At 12 O'clock In Off-Year Election

EARLY RETURNS EXPECTED

Precincts Find More Time Being Taken For Study Of Various Issues

Reports from city precincts at noon Tuesday indicated heavy voting in the off-year election which is featured by special issues.

The total vote cast in city precincts at 12 o'clock noon was 936. In 1937 the total vote cast for mayoralty candidates was 2,913.

Precinct workers expected the voting during the afternoon to be brisk. In 1931, an off-year election, the vote at 1 p. m. was 1,131.

Voters are spending more time in the booths this year than in many years, precinct workers observed. In Circleville they have four ballots for consideration, the ticket for city offices, township officials, local question and issues ticket and the state question and issues ticket.

Lawrence Johnson, clerk of the board of elections, predicted the tabulation on the city offices and city issues would be completed by 11 p. m. All precinct workers have received instructions to make their first count on the state issues. These reports are to be telephoned to the board of elections and will be submitted in groups of 10 to the secretary of state. There are 40 precincts in the county.

After completing the tabulation on the state issues the city poll workers will start counting votes on local issues and the candidates.

All Precincts to Report

All reports of the city precincts will be submitted to the board of elections as early as possible Tuesday night. It was expected the majority of the rural districts and villages would report Wednesday.

Votes in the city precincts at noon were: First Ward A, 121; B, 72; C, 97, and D, 60; Second Ward A, 112; B, 87; Third Ward A, 99; B, 72; Fourth Ward A, 50; B, 55, and C, 111.

There are only two party contests in Circleville. These are between Mayor W. B. Cady, Democrat, seeking reelection, opposed by B. T. Hedges, Republican, Circleville Township justice of peace, and John Himrod, Democrat, seeking reelection as treasurer with Harry Gard, Republican, as his opponent.

Three Questions Up

Three local issues drawing the attention of voters are renewal of the three mill levy for school purposes, a change to a charter form of government and a $20,000 bond issue for an addition to Berger Hospital.

State issues included a proposed amendment to the constitution setting up a state board of education that would have the power to name the director of the department, the two Bigelow amendments, and a proposed referendum to keep the administration-sponsored civil service "ripper bill" from becoming a law.

One Bigelow amendment would assure monthly pensions of $50 to single persons and $80 to married couples over 60 years of age provided they are not gainfully employed. The other would reduce to 100,000 the number of signatures necessary to assure an initiated vote on any state issue.

DEATH OF FOUR MINERS IN BLAST BRINGS PROBE

MULLENS, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Death of four miners and serious injury to another in a mine explosion prompted an investigation today by officials of the Brule-Smokeless Coal Company. The blast occurred yesterday at the company's workings at Otsego, three miles from Mullens.

A preliminary inquiry indicated the explosion was due to ignition of an accumulation of gas, it was stated. Ninety-five other men working in the mine escaped without injuries.

BODY OF NAVAL FLIER SOUGHT IN TROPICAL REGION

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 7.—U. S. Navy crash boats today searched for the body of Chief Aviationist's Mate W. T. Rhodes of San Diego, lost when the observation plane from the aircraft carrier Enterprise crashed off Barber's Point, near Honolulu.

The pilot, Lieut. W. R. Wallis, was rescued after he had parachuted to safety and remained aloft for 40 minutes. Lieut. Wallis suffered slight burns.

He said the plane caught on fire while on a routine flight. Lieut. Wallis said he ordered Rhodes to "bail out," and then did so himself.

Navy patrol planes and crash boats sped to his rescue but could find no trace of Rhodes.

NEW YORK TO DECIDE ON PARI-MUTUEL BETTING

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7—A close vote on the proposed legalization of pari-mutuel betting, the only state-wide issue in New York's election, was forecast today.

One congressman, two state senators, six assemblymen, 50 mayors and a host of minor local officials were to be chosen in local contests.

Two weeks ago, advocates of the mutual machines predicted their legalization by a wide margin and were willing to wager 3 to 1 on their judgment. During the last 48 hours, however, this confidence waned to a point where 6 to 5 was being offered last night against passage of the proposed constitutional amendment.

GOVERNMENT'S PLAN FOR TAX PAYMENT APPROVED

County commissioners agreed Monday to permit the government to pay funds due as taxes in 1939 on the Scioto Farms Project directly to the various subdivisions instead of through the auditor's and treasurer's offices. This is the same plan as followed in 1937.

EARLY RETURNS IN STATE SHOW HEAVY CASTING

Skies Overcast, But Many Citizens Get Out Early To Record Decisions

pension plan and a companion amendment to make it easier to submit initiated legislation to a vote, would be known.

Less drastic than the "ham 'n' eggs" pension scheme plan voted on simultaneously in California, the Bigelow plan nevertheless is considerably more liberal and costly than Ohio's present age pension system, and it embodies extra real estate and income taxes.

Incomes Guaranteed
If the voters adopt the pension amendment, contrary to the expectation of most observers, an income of $50 a month would be guaranteed each single Ohioan over 60. The state would contribute the difference between that figure and the individual's other income. Married couples would be guaranteed $80.

The pension proposal, on which national attention was focused, received an eleventh hour setback from an unexpected quarter when one of the three original sponsors, Dr. Mark Milliken, Hamilton city councilman, admitted that he expects both Bigelow amendments to be defeated.

"The people were scared and aroused by the lies told about the pension plan and what it would do to the state's tax structure," said Dr. Milliken. "I admit that it was loosely drawn and that the tax provisions can be misinterpreted."

However, he expressed amazement at the wave of opposition to the number of signatures required for submission of initiated laws and constitutional amendments, citing that in the legislature a lone member can propose a new law.

If the pension plan meets defeat at the polls today, Bigelow has said he will be back with another in 1940. Dr. Milliken promised his continued support.

Two Others Decided
Also on the special issues ballot handed each voter were the referendum on the Bricker administration's civil service act and a constitutional amendment creating a state board of education with authority to appoint the education director.

Each of the two was important in itself but, except for state employees and their relatives in the first instance and persons directly interested in education in the second, neither received more than passing attention because of the overshadowing Bigelow amendments.

The Democratic state executive committee sponsored the Civil Service Act referendum, objecting to the bill passed by the last legislature which increased to three personnel of the present two-member, bi-partisan State Civil Commission. It now is up to the electorate to decide whether it does or does not want the bill to become law.

Since Ohio's constitution was revised in 1912, the governor has named a state education director for a 4-year term. As governors are elected for only two years, often, as at present, the holder of this important cabinet post is of the opposite political party or faction. The proposed amendment would take the appointive power out of the governor's hands and give it to a non-salaried board.

On the Bigelow amendments party lines melted away, the leaders of both denouncing the pension proposal as "fantastic, unworkable and certain to plunge the state into bankruptcy" if adopted, but Republicans and Democrats divided sharply on the other two state issues. Republicans hoped for approval of the so-called civil service ripper bill and the education department amendment, and Democrats worked for their defeat.

German propaganda and one of the most potent forces behind German power politics during the last two years, have clearly met their master in the American planes.

Furthermore, the French jubilantly point out that the Allies will have an inexhaustible supply of these American planes as a result of the new United States neutrality law, which has lifted the arms embargo.

Details of the battle have not yet been revealed, much to the disappointment of French newspapermen, who literally howled for the story at this morning's press conference.

STONE GOES WEST

Ezra Stone has been signed for his first starring role in pictures and goes to Hollywood for the lead in Paramount's "Good Old Swish." His "Aldrich Family" programs will originate on the West coast during the shooting of the film, starting over the NBC-Blue network Tuesday, Nov. 14. The move causes Stone to bow out of his co-starring role in the Broadway hit, "See My Lawyer." However, he'll resume the part when he returns to New York. More than 300 undergraduates at Knox College, Ill., will serve as extras in Stone's picture which is based on George Fitch's "Swish College" stories.

ESCAPED CONVICT NAMED IN KIDNAP ROBBERIES

WAUSEON, Nov. 7—Described as an escaped convict from the London Prison Farm by Sheriff Harley Loveland, John Helicker, 33, were held in custody today charged with being one of three men involved in kidnap-holdups during June and July.

Helicker was arrested after C. O. Ernst, Delta gas station operator, recognized him in the car of one of his customers, a farmer of near Delta. Ernst notified Loveland, and Helicker was arrested in a cornfield where he was working.

Sheriff Loveland said articles found in Helicker's car were stolen from Berley Heights, and led him to believe that he may have been one of the sack bandits operating around Lima. Helicker was identified by Sam Slater, Delta, and Asa Pontious, Wauseon, two of the victims of the bandit. He faces four indictments in Fulton County.

STATE SCHOOLS NEARING CLOSE OF GRID SEASON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—The Ohio scholastic football season neared its climax today as the majority of the teams prepared to lower the curtain with games Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

As the annual prep pigskin show neared its end, Massillon continued its rampage and, barring an unexpected upset, should again be unquestionably acclaimed as state champion. Last week, the Tigers rolled over Caston Lehman, 47 to 6, for their eighth consecutive win.

Besides Massillon, these eleven had won eight straight and had suffered no defeats: West Jefferson (Franklin County); Grandview, Columbus West, Crestline, Toledo Waite, Logan, Orrville, and Conneaut.

In the seven straight classification were Hamilton, Cleveland John Adams, Lima South, Rockford and Akron St. Vincents.

Middleport's fine aggregation finally fell by the wayside as Logan eked out a 21 to 20 victory in a thriller. Bellaire tasted defeat for the first time when New Philadelphia crashed through with a 7 to 2 decision. Mansfield knocked Belleville from the unbeaten ranks with a 13 to 7 triumph. Toledo Libbey's erstwhile clean slate was spoiled by a 7 to 7 tie with Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

One of the finest games of the week, although it had no bearing on the mythical state crown, was the 27 to 27 fracas put on by Lorain and Cleveland Shu.

Scoring three touchdowns in the last period, Lorain came back to settle for a tie after one of the most sensational gridiron struggles ever seen in Lorain.

POND IN DENIAL THAT HE FIRED 11 ELI ATHLETES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7—Coach Raymond "Ducky" Pond today expressed profound dissatisfaction with the type of football his Yale varsity team played in its defeat by Dartmouth Saturday but termed "ridiculous" a report that he had fired nine of his 11 regulars.

"There will be a slight change in personnel," Pond told International News Service, "but not more than one or two men will be affected."

Pond also denied having accused his Eli aggregation of being the "worst Yale team" he had ever coached.

"What I told the team was that on last Saturday it played the worst type of football I have ever seen in my six years at Yale," he said.

GEORGIA COLEMAN WAGES FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7—Georgia Coleman, former Olympic diving champion, again today was engaged in a valiant fight for her life.

Suffering a relapse in a liver ailment she was placed in a local hospital for emergency treatment, and her physician, Dr. Bythe W. Pahl, said Miss Coleman was "very week—anything can happen."

Ever since she was stricken with infantile paralysis in 1937, Miss Coleman has waged a slow, uphill battle to regain her health. Just about the time she regained use of her limbs, she was forced to undergo treatment for the liver complaint.

NEW YORK TO DECIDE ON PARI-MUTUEL BETTING

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—A close vote on the proposed legalization of pari-mutuel betting, the only state-wide issue in New York's election, was forecast today.

One congressman, two state senators, six assemblymen, 50 mayors and a host of minor local officials were to be chosen in local contests.

Two weeks ago, advocates of the mutuel machines predicted their legalization by a wide margin and were willing to wager 3 to 1 on their judgment. During the last 48 hours, however, this confidence waned to a point where 6 to 5 was being offered last night against passage of the proposed constitutional amendment.

GOVERNMENT'S PLAN FOR TAX PAYMENT APPROVED

County commissioners agreed Monday to permit the government to pay funds due as taxes in 1938 on the Scioto Farms Project directly to the various subdivisions instead of through the auditor's and treasurer's offices. This is the same plan as followed in 1937.

Robert G. Colville, county treasurer, said the county would receive no funds from the government unless it was arranged in this manner.

A number of mechanized divisions composed of tanks and armored cars also are stationed on the frontier, the report stated.

According to the agency, Berlin officials stated the troops had been placed on the Dutch border "as there is no additional room for men on the Siegfried line."

pension plan and a companion amendment to make it easier to submit initiated legislation to a vote, would be known.

Less drastic than the "ham 'n' eggs" pension scheme plan voted on simultaneously in California, the Bigelow plan nevertheless is considerably more liberal and costly than Ohio's present age pension system, and it embodies extra real estate and income taxes.

Incomes Guaranteed

If the voters adopt the pension amendment, contrary to the expectation of most observers, an income of $50 a month would be guaranteed each single Ohioan over 60. The state would contribute the difference between that figure and the individual's other income. Married couples would be guaranteed $80.

The pension proposal, on which national attention was focused, received an eleventh hour setback from an unexpected quarter when one of the three original sponsors, Dr. Mark Milliken, Hamilton city councilman, admitted that he expects both Bigelow amendments to be defeated.

"The people were scared and aroused by the lies told about the pension plan and what it would do to the state's tax structure," said Dr. Milliken. "I admit that it was loosely drawn and that the tax provisions can be misinterpreted."

However, he expressed amazement at the wave of opposition to the other amendment reducing the number of signatures required for submission of initiated laws and constitutional amendments, citing that in the legislature a lone member can propose a new law.

If the pension plan meets defeat at the polls today, Bigelow has said he will be back with another in 1940. Dr. Milliken promised his continued support.

Two Others Decided

Also on the special issues ballot handed each voter were the referendum on the Bricker administration's civil service act and a constitutional amendment creating a state board of education with authority to appoint the education director.

Each of the two was important in itself but, except for state employees and their relatives in the first instance and persons directly interested in education in the second, neither received more than passing attention because of the overshadowing Bigelow amendments.

The Democratic state executive committee sponsored the Civil Service Act referendum, objecting to the bill passed by the last legislature which increased to three personnel of the present two-member, bi-partisan State Civil Commission. It now is up to the electorate to decide whether it does or does not want the bill to become law.

Since Ohio's constitution was revised in 1912, the governor has named a state education director for a 4-year term. As governors are elected for only two years, often, as at present, the holder of this important cabinet post is of the opposite political party or faction.

The proposed amendment would take the appointive power out of the governor's hands and give it to a non-salaried board.

On the Bigelow amendments party lines melted away, the leaders of both denouncing the pension proposal as "fantastic, unworkable and bankrupting" if adopted, but Republicans and Democrats divided sharply on the other two state issues. Republicans hoped for approval of the so-called civil service ripper bill and the education department amendment, and Democrats worked for their defeat.

KITTENS HALT TRAIN

SEATTLE, Wash.,—With a screeching of brakes, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul's east-bound crack "Olympian" stopped at Superior, Mont., where it usually gives only a whistle snort, to put off two unscheduled passengers. The passengers were two tiny, wide-eyed yellow kittens which had been discovered, nearly frozen, on the road platform of the observation car. After dining sumptuously on milk and breast of chicken, the two stowaways were thrust into the hands of a startled station agent at Superior.

Romance at Recess

JACKIE Cooper and Betty Field are caught here in one of the rare calm moments of Paramount's "What a Life," which opens tomorrow at the Cliftona Theatre. Based on the two-episode Broadway hit, the film is a tale of the adventures and misadventures of high-spirited high-school youngsters in their day-to-day existence. Jackie portrays the role of hapless Henry Aldrich, whose reputation as a radio character is already well-established. John Howard, Janice Logan, Lionel Stander and Hedda Hopper are also seen in the comedy.

German propaganda and one of the most potent forces behind German power politics during the last two years, have clearly met their master in the American plains.

Details of the battle have not yet been revealed, much to the disappointment of French newspapermen, who literally howled for the story at this morning's press conference.

MOTHER TAKES POISON; SEPARATION IS BLAMED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—Separation from her three small children was blamed today for the suicide of Mrs. Lillian Davis, 30, who ended her life by swallowing poison and then turning on the gas jet in her room. Police could not locate her husband to inform him of the tragedy.

A note addressed to her children, June, Roy and Joy, in a Waynesburg, Pa., children's home, read:

"I can't go on living without you. I love you with all my heart. Your loving mother."

Another note addressed to the mother of the home, read in part: "I am too unhappy, miserable and heartbroken, so I am taking the only way out. Don't tell my babies I took my own life. Kiss each one for me."

Police could not learn the circumstances surrounding the separation of the mother from her children.

His "Aldrich Family" programs will originate on the West coast during the shooting of the film, starting over the NBC-Blue network Tuesday, Nov. 14. The move causes Stone to bow out of his co-starring role in the Broadway hit, "See My Lawyer." However, he'll resume the part when he returns to New York. More than 300 undergraduates at Knox College, Ill., will serve as extras in Stone's picture which is based on George Fitch's "Siwash College" stories.

ESCAPED CONVICT NAMED IN KIDNAP ROBBERIES

WAUSEON, Nov. 7.—Described as an escaped convict from the London Prison Farm by Sheriff Harley Loveland, John Helicker, 33, were held in custody today charged with being one of three men involved in kidnap-holdups during June and July.

Helicker was arrested after C. O. Ernst, Delta gas station operator, recognized him in the car of one of his customers, a farmer of near Delta. Ernst notified Loveland, and Helicker was arrested in a cornfield where he was working.

Sheriff Loveland said articles found in Helicker's car were stolen from Berley Heights, and led him to believe that he may have been one of the sack bandits operating around Lima. Helicker was identified by Sam Slater, Delta, and Asa Pontious, Wauseon, two of the victims of the bandit. He faces four indictments in Fulton County.

STATE SCHOOLS NEARING CLOSE OF GRID SEASON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—The Ohio scholastic football season neared its climax today as the majority of the teams prepared to lower the curtain with games Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

As the annual prep platoon show neared its end, Massillon continued its rampage and, barring an unexpected upset, should again be unquestionably acclaimed as state champion. Last week, the Tigers rolled over Canton Lehman, 47 to 6, for their eighth consecutive win.

Besides Massillon, these eleven had won eight straight and had suffered no defeats: West Jefferson (Franklin County), Grandview, Columbus West, Crestline, Toledo Waite, Logan, Orrville, and Conneaut.

In the seven straight classification were Hamilton, Cleveland John Adams, Lima South, Rockford and Akron St. Vincents. Middleport's fine aggregation finally fell by the wayside as Logan eked out a 21 to 20 victory in a thriller.

Bellaire tasted defeat for the first time when New Philadelphia crashed through with a 7 to 2 decision. Mansfield knocked Belleville from the unbeaten ranks with a 13 to 7 triumph. Toledo Libbey's erstwhile clean slate was spoiled by a 7 to 7 tie with Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

One of the finest games of the week, although it had no bearing on the mythical state crown, was the 27 to 27 fracas put on by Lorain and Cleveland Shaw.

Scoring three touchdowns in the last period, Lorain came back to settle for a tie after one of the most sensational gridiron struggles ever seen in Lorain.

COUNTRY KEEPS EYES ON VOTE IN TWO STATES

Pension Questions Become Outstanding As Ohio And California Ballot

FOES FEAR BANKRUPTCY

Election Not Of National Importance Except For Ham And Egg Trend

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — Millions of American voters trooped to the polls from coast to coast Tuesday in a variety of elections, highlighted by the balloting of California and Ohio on the old age pension issue.

Party leaders in Washington view the day's elections, important locally, as without particular national importance except for the effect the outcome of the pension contests may have on the national economy. Victories for the "ham and egg" in California and the Bigelow pensioners in Ohio would be viewed seriously from a national standpoint.

The electorate is choosing governors in Kentucky, Mississippi, national representatives in the 34th New York (Binghamton) and 4th Pennsylvania (Philadelphia) districts, mayors in Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Memphis and other cities, and a host of local officers in a score of states. Of these, only the outcome in Philadelphia may have an effect on national politics.

Bankruptcy Feared

In California, the "ham and egg," backed by Senator Sheridan Downey, seek to amend the state constitution to provide a $30-a-year pension for the aged over 50. The pension would be paid in state warrants, financed by a three percent transaction tax. Its critics charge it will bankrupt the state.

In Ohio, the pensioners also seek a state constitutional amendment to pay out $50 every month to former wage-earners over 60. It would be financed by an additional two percent tax on real estate, valued at $20,000 an acre or more, plus an income tax of one-fourth the amount paid by federal income taxpayers in any given year. The amendment provides further that the cost of the pension plan shall be a first lien on all state taxes.

Defeat Urged

National leaders of both parties hope for and anticipate defeat of both plans. They have no desire to see the issue injected into the 1940 presidential campaign and fear a victory for the pensioners in either state will thrust the pension question into next year's elections.

The Democrats meanwhile predict gubernatorial victories in Kentucky and Mississippi. In Kentucky, Governor Keen Johnson (D) was a favorite over Judge King Swope (R). In Mississippi, the Democratic nominee, Paul B. Johnson, is merely going through the formality of election.

In the two congressional races, both Republicans and Democrats expect to maintain the status quo. The G.O.P. expects to win handily in the Binghamton contest, where Edwin A. Hall (R) is a favorite over John B. Johnson (D). In the Philadelphia contest, John E. Sheridan (D) is favored but no certain winner over Boies Penrose, Jr. (R), nephew of the one-time Republican boss. The G.O.P. cut a 35,000 Democratic plurality in 1936 to 9,171 in 1938 in this district and has some hopes of carrying it today.

The Republicans also expect to elect the mayor in Philadelphia, having a 137,135 plurality in registrations. Their nominee, Judge Robert E. Lamberton, however, is opposed by a Democratic fusion candidate, City Controller Robert C. White, who has plenty of Republican support. There may be an upset here.

In Cleveland, Republican Mayor Ralph Burton seeks reelection over John E. O'Donnell, also a Republican, in a nonpartisan contest. In Detroit, Mayor Richard Reading, a Republican, is running against young Edward J. Jeffries, a Democrat, in another nonpartisan contest. In Memphis, the Democratic boss, Edward H. Crump, is running for mayor after having been credited with naming others to that office for about 20 years.

Trend Watched

Outside of the Philadelphia mayoralty contest, party leaders see little national importance in these elections. In Philadelphia, a Democratic sweep would be

This is the fifth in a series of questions and answers relating to the amended Social Security Act. Questions on this subject will be answered direct if addressed to this newspaper or to Mr. C. C. Darby, Manager of the Social Security Board field office, New Federal Building, Columbus, Ohio.

Question: Is it possible for a man who became 65 before the social security amendments were adopted to qualify for monthly benefits under the new program of old-age and survivor's insurance?

Answer: Yes, it is. Take the

COUNTY METHODIST MEN MEET THURSDAY EVENING

The Pickaway County Methodist Men's Club will meet in Hedges Chapel, Walnut Township, Thursday evening. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. Father and Son night will be observed. Group singing and a musical program will feature the entertainment.

certain to have its effect in 1940 while a Republican victory would be taken to indicate Pennsylvania is safely back in the G.O.P. column, since the keystone state usually goes as Philadelphia goes.

case of a man who became 65 in January, 1938. During the preceding years he earned $100 a month. Since 1938 he has earned $75 a month. He plans to retire January 1, 1940.

Question: What would be the basis on which the monthly benefits of this individual would be figured?

Answer: On his average monthly wages. His wages amounted to $1,200 in 1937. His wages for 1938 are not counted, since there were earnings after age 65 and before 1939, when the amendments were adopted. His earnings will amount to $900 in 1939, making a total of $2,100 for the period during which his employment was covered. This is an average of about $80 a month.

Question: Now if this man retired on January 1, 1940, and filed a claim for benefits, what amount would he receive?

Answer: Between $20 and $25 a month. This is figured as follows. He will receive 40 percent of the first $50 of average monthly earnings plus 10 percent of the additional sum earned in this case. To this will be added an additional two percent of the total as the man was employed during two years.

Question: Will there be an additional benefit if he has a wife who is at least 65 years of age?

Answer: Yes, the wife's benefit will be half of that her husband receives. If his benefit is figured at $24 a month she will be entitled to $12 in addition, making a combined monthly payment of $36 in this case.

Question: In all cases the monthly benefits increase as the average wage and the number of years served in covered employment increases?

Answer: That is true. The maximum benefit is just the same as in the old schedule, namely $85 a month, for an individual who has served in employment covered by the old-age and survivors insurance program.

Question: When may claims for these benefits be filed?

Answer: That is now being determined. It will be in ample time to permit covered workers to receive all the benefits to which they are entitled under the enlarged social security program which goes into effect January 1, 1940.

riding hatless in Rock Creek Park, and they began to follow her style. Matters got so bad that representations of protest were conveyed to the First Lady.

Vivacious Miss Charlotte No-land, head of fashionable Foxcroft School, took occasion, when invited to the White House for lunch, to beg her hostess to reform and put on some sort of headgear.

TWO NEUTRALITY SPEECHES

Unlike the Senate, where four weeks of debate didn't change a neutrality vote, the Administration's big majority in the House was definitely influenced by two speeches.

One was the short, brilliant defense of the measure by Representative James Wadsworth, forthright New York Republican. The speech was not only the best made in the House, but topped anything in the Senate.

The other speech was made by Soviet Premier Molotov, blasting the neutrality bill and the President. Next to Wadsworth's effort, this was the best argument for the measure and was responsible for clinching a number of waverers.

M. D. E., Louisville, Ky.—Major Joseph M. Kelly, Assistant Adjutant General of Kentucky, is highly regarded by ranking Army officers and would be entirely acceptable to them as Chief of the Militia Bureau. They supported him for the post before Senator "Happy" Chandler went to bat for him. . . . S. B. A., St. Louis—Many of the government employees listed by Dies as members of the American League for Peace and Democracy were merely on the League's mailing list, and not members. Those who actually were members for the most part are proud of it, since the League's Washington membership represents a blue ribbon of Capital liberals . . . L. H., Paducah, Ky.—It was Thomas Jefferson and not George Washington who coined the phrase "entangling alliances." Jefferson used it in his first inaugural address, March 4, 1801. What Washington said in his often misquoted Farewell Address was: "Tis our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances, with any portion of the foreign world."

No matter what you think about Louisiana politics you must admit it's not a dull life.

COUNTRY KEEPS EYES ON VOTE IN TWO STATES

Pension Questions Become Outstanding As Ohio And California Ballot

FOES FEAR BANKRUPTCY

Election Not Of National Importance Except For Ham And Egg Trend

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 — Millions of American voters trooped to the polls from coast to coast Tuesday in a variety of elections, highlighted by the balloting of California and Ohio on the old age pension issue.

Party leaders in Washington view the day's elections, important locally, as without particular national importance except for the effect the outcome of the pension contests may have on the national economy. Victories for the "ham and egg"ers in California and the Bigelow pensioners in Ohio would be viewed seriously from a national standpoint.

The electorate is choosing governors in Kentucky, Mississippi, national representatives in the 34th New York (Binghamton) and 4th Pennsylvania (Philadelphia) districts, mayors in Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Memphis and other cities, and a host of local officers in a score of states. Of these, only the outcome in Philadelphia may have an effect on national politics.

Bankruptcy Feared
In California, the "ham and egg"ers, backed by Senator Sheridan Downey, seek to amend the state constitution to provide a $30-a-year pension for the aged over 60. The pension would be paid in state warrants, financed by a three percent transaction tax. Its critics charge it will bankrupt the state.

In Ohio, the pensioners also seek a state constitutional amendment to pay out $50 every month to former wage-earners over 60. It would be financed by an additional two percent tax on real estate, valued at $20,000 an acre or more, plus an income tax of one-fourth the amount paid by federal income taxpayers to the federal government in any given year. The amendment provides further that the cost of the pension plan shall be a first lien on all state taxes.

Defeat Urged
National leaders of both parties hope for and anticipate defeat of both plans. They have no desire to see the issue injected into the 1940 presidential campaign and fear a victory for the pensioners in either state will thrust the pension question into next year's elections.

The Democrats meanwhile predict gubernatorial victories in Kentucky and Mississippi. In Kentucky, Governor Keen Johnson (D) was a favorite over Judge King Swope (R). In Mississippi, the Democratic nominee, Paul B. Johnson, is merely going through the formality of election.

In the two congressional races, both Republicans and Democrats expect to maintain the status quo. The G.O.P. expects to win handily in the Binghamton contest, where Edwin A. Hall (R) is a favorite over John B. Johnson (D). In the Philadelphia contest, John E. Sheridan (D) is favored but no certain winner over Boies Penrose, Jr. (R), nephew of the one-time Republican boss. The G.O.P. cut a 35,000 Democratic plurality in 1936 to 9,171 in 1939 in this district and has some hopes of carrying it today.

The Republicans also expect to elect the mayor in Philadelphia, having a 137,135 plurality in registrations. Their nominee, Judge Robert E. Lambertson, however, is opposed by a Democratic fusion candidate, City Controller Robert C. White, who has plenty of Republican support. There may be an upset here.

In Cleveland, Republican Mayor Ralph Burton seeks reelection over John E. O'Donnell, also a Republican, in a nonpartisan contest. In Detroit, Mayor Richard Reading, a Republican, is running against young Edward J. Jeffries, a Democrat, in another nonpartisan contest. In Memphis, the Democratic boss, Edward H. Crump, is running for mayor after having been credited with naming others to that office for about 20 years.

Trend Watched
Outside of the Philadelphia mayoralty contest, party leaders see little national importance in these elections. In Philadelphia, a Democratic sweep would be

Questions and Answers On Social Security Act

Editor's Note:

This is the fifth in a series of questions and answers relating to the amended Social Security Act. Questions on this subject will be answered direct if addressed to this newspaper or to Mr. C. C. Darby, Manager of the Social Security Board field office, New Federal Building, Columbus, Ohio.

Question: Is it possible for a man who became 65 before the social security amendments were adopted to qualify for monthly benefits under the new program of old-age and survivor's insurance?

Answer: Yes, it is. Take the

CAMERA CLUB SELECTS COMMITTEES FOR YEAR

Committees for the Circleville Camera Club were appointed Monday night by Blenn D. Bales, president, at the meeting held in the Steddom Studio.

The committees are: program, Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, Tom Brunner, and Mack Noggle; nominating, James Brown, Paul Mattheas and Fred Wittich; salon, Ruth Moffitt, Leslie Pontius and A. R. Steddom, and auditing, Emmett Barnhart, Nelson Sweyer and Robert Bower. Mr. and Mrs. Steddom were appointed honorary members of the club.

Colored slides of flowers and some western scenes were shown by Mr. Pontius. The next meeting will be held December 5.

COUNTY METHODIST MEN MEET THURSDAY EVENING

The Pickaway County Methodist Men's Club will meet in Hedges Chapel, Walnut Township, Thursday evening. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. Father and Son night will be observed. Group singing and a musical program will feature the entertainment.

Officers of the club are Homer Reber, Walnut Township, president; Dr. Wells Wilson, Williamsport, vice president; and H. W. Plum, Circleville, secretary and treasurer.

certain to have its effect in 1940 while a Republican victory would be taken to indicate Pennsylvania is safely back in the G.O.P. column, since the Keystone state usually goes as Philadelphia goes.

case of a man who became 65 in January, 1938. During the preceding years he earned $100 a month. Since 1938 he has earned $75 a month. He plans to retire January 1, 1940.

Question: What would be the basis on which the monthly benefits of this individual would be figured?

Answer: On his average monthly wages. His wages amounted to $1,200 in 1937. His wages for 1938 are not counted, since there were earnings after age 65 and before 1939, when the amendments were adopted. His earnings will amount to $900 in 1939, making a total of $2,100 for the period during which his employment was covered. This is an average of about $80 a month.

Question: Now if this man retired on January 1, 1940, and filed a claim for benefits, what amount would he receive?

Answer: Between $20 and $25 a month. This is figured as follows. He will receive 40 percent of the first $50 of average monthly earnings plus 10 percent of the additional sum earned in this case. To this will be added an additional two percent of the total as the man was employed during two years.

Question: Will there be an additional benefit if he has a wife who is at least 65 years of age?

Answer: Yes, the wife's benefit will be half of that her husband receives. If his benefit is figured at $24 a month she will be entitled to $12 in addition, making a combined monthly payment of $36 in this case.

Question: In all cases the monthly benefits increase as the average wage and the number of years served in covered employment increases?

Answer: That is true. The maximum benefit is just the same as in the old schedule, namely $85 a month, for an individual who has served in employment covered by the old-age and survivors insurance program.

Question: When may claims for these benefits be filed?

Answer: That is now being determined. It will be in ample time to permit covered workers to receive all the benefits to which they are entitled under the enlarged social security program which goes into effect January 1, 1940.

THE ATLANTIC FERRY

AMERICAN sales of munitions and commodities to Great Britain and France will hardly equal those of the last war, but it is evident that a log jam of orders is loosed by repeal of the arms embargo. The Atlantic ferry will soon be working overtime, in convoy of warships, carrying war supplies eastward and "traveling light" westward.

It is reassuring to know that American ships will not be engaged in that traffic, and thus there will be less likelihood of such incidents as pulled us steadily toward war participation the last time.

Unfortunately much American shipping will be plunged into forced idleness by the cash-and-carry rule for war shipments and the effort to keep American shipping of all kinds out of the war zone. This lack of cargoes may be only temporary. A big opportunity may be developing through increasing trade with Latin America and the Orient. There may be, too, considerable traffic with Canada on the western coast, supplementing that of the Great Lakes.

It is reasonable to expect an intensification of the German campaign against British shipping, by airplanes, surface craft and submarines, as the trans-Atlantic ferry swings into high. It might be Hitler's last big push. If he fails to stop delivery of the limitless supplies now available to the European democracies, he may decide to make peace.

PLENTY OF TURKEY

THE current turkey crop is 22 percent larger than a year ago and 15 percent larger than the record 1936 crop. The task of getting 32,000,000 birds from the growers to the Thanksgiving Day dinner tables of America is a big one, but the marketers are ready for it.

Observers say it may be a good thing that many families and institutions, for one reason or another, will have two Thanksgivings—on November 23 and Nov. 30. Double consumption will help to take care of those extra gobblers. Record supplies are not the problem they might be, however, for turkey is less of a one-day bird than it used to be. Turkey dinners are almost as commonplace as chicken dinners at hotels and are available through a long season. Turkey sandwiches are on restaurant menus almost the year around. It's just another of the many reasons Americans have for thankfulness.

Anyway, the depression is leaving us with a lot of wonderful roads to drive on until the next depression.

Is Hitler losing his nerve? He hasn't yet ordered German-Americans to move back home.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up groggily, for all night long the dog had been snick and exhibited a pacing and grunting exhibition in my bedroom. At four by the clock the pup insisted on making a trip to the back yard. Easily was the bathrobe found, but in my sleepy condition could not find the slippers. Didn't even remember my shoes and thought I would go down barefoot, turn her loose at the back door and await her return. Hardly had she left the house until two houses away a dog started barking and the pup went that way in a hurry. I do hope none of the neighbors was looking as I streaked across those two yards in my pajamas with bathrobe flying and my bare feet kicking up frost.

Cold weather is here again and with it the usual inconvenience to wearers of glasses. But I know a way to prevent that fogging. Buy a small cake of castle soap and rub it lightly on each side of each lens. Then, with thumb and forefinger smear that soap all over the glass. Wipe off the soap without moistening it. Your glasses will be cleaner than they have been for a long time and they will not fog for the rest of that day. Simple and cheap.

Wonder why no one ever talks about the war debt anymore? And the thought strikes me that Hitler and Stalin are not such strange bedfellows. Both of them are of the grabbing type, cold-blooded killers and both are crazy and drunk with power. Both are outstanding politicians and as such would sell out their own grandmothers for any slight advantage. BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
"UNFRIENDLY" ENGLAND, RUSSIA

WASHINGTON—The confidential dispatches from Europe are buzzing with conflicting reports regarding the British and the Russians. The reports happen to be absolutely true, nevertheless they don't make sense.

For instance, it is a secret but actual fact that a British ship left Odessa, Russian port on the Black Sea, not long ago loaded with $10,000,000 worth of the latest Russian military equipment for the Chinese armies. This equipment was not cast-off stuff which the Russians did not need, but up-to-date weapons of war.

The Japanese knew about it, and tried through diplomatic channels to stop it. But the ship arrived in Rangoon, port of British Burma, just the other day and its cargo is now in Chinese hands.

The ship, it should be noted, was British, and it took Russian arms to a British port. In other words, the British and Russian Governments, officially none too friendly, are working together behind the scenes when it comes to combating the Japanese in China.

Another diplomatic cross-current is the British suggestion, so far unofficial, to send Anthony Eden, ex-Foreign Minister, to Russia as Ambassador. Under the same plan, the French would send to Moscow ex-Premier Edouard Herriot, one of the most important figures in France.

ALLIED LIBERALS

Behind this proposal is a group of liberals in both Britain and France who believe in trying to win Russia away from Hitler. It is the same group which urged a Russian alliance before Hitler beat them to it.

Vigorously opposed to them are conservative members in both the French and British cabinets who are worried over Russia's designs on India, and fear that the fall of Hitler would lead to bolshevism or at least "democracy" in Germany. In other words, they fear the menace of revolution as much as the menace of Hitler.

NOTE—This gives one clue as to why ex-President Benes has been given little Allied support in organizing a revolutionary movement among the Czechs. Benes is classed as a liberal and a Russian sympathizer.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S HAT

Mrs. Roosevelt's riding habit is making trouble among the horsey folk of Virginia. They are alarmed over the vogue of hatless horseback riding, and they blame the First Lady.

The fox-hunting purists cherish the old convention that a lady should wear a hat while riding. To violate this convention is as bad as going hatless to church. Furthermore, it is a matter of safety, for the riding hat, sometimes lined with steel, saves many a cranium on the yon side of a jump.

But the young things in Virginia hunting society saw pictures of Mrs. Roosevelt (Continued on Page Three)

Answers to Your Health Problems

Acetanilid Poisoning

THE UNITED STATES Department of Agriculture writes to ask me: "Do you consider the daily administration of nine grains of acetanilid and 60 grains of bromide, or either separately, over an unlimited period of time, dangerous?"

In my opinion the dosage of nine grains of acetanilid daily results in a definite form of poisoning. I do not believe the administration of that amount of bromide is dangerous.

Dr. Clendenen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ous, nor do I believe that the bromide steps up or increases the toxic effects of the acetanilid.

Acetanilid poisoning usually appears in individuals who do not know that they are taking acetanilid. They get into the habit of taking a pick-me-up in the morning.

The symptoms of acetanilid poisoning consist in a change in the complexion, constipation and mental depression. The complexion assumes a peculiar muddy appearance, the lips get blue. The color of the skin is hard to describe, but friends usually say something to the effect that "John doesn't look very well; he must have anemia." Or more frequently they tell him, "You look constipated," which makes him take some more of a cathartic, usually the very mixture that has the acetanilid in it. The muddy complexion is due to the formation of a new and unnatural compound in the blood—a sulphur compound, so the syndrome is called "sulphanemia."

The condition clears up rapidly upon withdrawal of the use of the drug.

Causes of Pain in Neck

What are the causes of pain in the muscles of the neck?

This may be due to spasm. Such a cause can be spotted because the pain disappears when the patient relaxes or goes to sleep.

It may be due to necrosis of the vertebrae of the neck, but most likely of all it is a simple muscular inflammation from diseased teeth or tonsils.

Gas Masks for Migraine

What is the value of the use of oxygen tanks and gas masks in the treatment of migraine?

This treatment is somewhat new and has become popular lately largely because the means to administer oxygen economically, efficiently and comfortably have greatly increased.

Migraine headaches are of several types and the use of oxygen will not relieve all of them, but reports from large clinics indicate that this treatment has a definite place.

A beneficial effect is most frequently obtained when the patient has a definite prodromal period or aura, when he knows that the migraine attack is going to come on. When oxygen is administered during this prodromal period, the attack is often side-tracked. For this reason it is practical to have an oxygen apparatus placed in the home for the migraine sufferer for immediate use when the symptoms indicate it.

In some patients the use of oxygen combined with the use of ergotamine tartrate has been very beneficial.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. B.: "Will a teaspoonful of table salt, taken upon arising every morning, cause any change in the quality of the blood? What about lemon juice taken at the same time?"

Answer—The body needs a certain amount of salt every day, but not nearly as much as a teaspoonful. However, it does no harm, because as soon as the blood and tissues have all they need, it is passed off by the kidneys. Lemon juice is a fine vitalizer and alkaliizer. It does no harm, but good.

Shadow Over Hill House

By ELLIOTT FILLION
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY

THE DETAILED instructions of Captain Lancy and the chief were still ringing in my ears as I led the way back to the lounge. There I found that, except for Mrs. Rutherford and Chloe, who had been sent to sit with her, every member of the household at Hill House was present, with the addition of Alan Murray.

"I have called you all together tonight to listen to an announcement I have to make, also to ask for more information," began Captain Lancy.

"I am sure the announcement will be a great relief and satisfaction to you all. Chief Forrest and I were never convinced that Dr. Peake was concerned in the murder of his mother."

A long breath of sheer relaxation and relief went up from everyone present. Josie's soft eyes filled with tears and Neal's strained expression faded away.

"We have decided that the wound in Mrs. Peake's breast was made by a very slender instrument, similar in style to the paper cutters we showed you some time ago. Naturally, we immediately suspected a doctor's knife, as there are two doctors in the household. We took both Dr. Peake's and Dr. Rutherford's cases of instruments for examination."

I started at this bit of information. I had not known that Dr. Paul's case as well as Neal's had been under suspicion. I was well aware that I knew only bits of what the police were doing, but I had not given Dr. Paul a thought as the possible murderer. He, as the first sufferer, through his mother, I had classed as a victim along with Neal and Josie. But the police had not overlooked the possibility of his guilt.

Captain Lancy was going on: "Our analysts have reported that the instruments in both cases have not been used since they were cleaned with a certain disinfectant which is used only in hospitals. This disinfectant, as far as we can learn, has never been in this house. That clears up that line and we are now following another."

I wasn't foolish enough to jump to the conclusion that, because the instrument examination proved definitely that none of them were used, Neal and Dr. Paul were forever eliminated from the case. But it was one line of suspicion which was proved unjustified.

"The three paper cutters have also been examined, and it is definitely proved, by the bits of dust and rust embedded in the engraving, that not one of them was used. We, therefore, decided to search again for the weapon. That search is now going on while you are gathered here."

A prolonged rustle went over the room. Surprise and dismay were expressed on each face as we all exchanged glances. I, personally, knew that I had nothing to hide, but it was upsetting to know that while I sat there someone was going through my things. I had a swift vision of Josie's room after it had been searched by the unknown.

Would all the rooms in Hill House be in that condition? If so, I had a mental picture of Chloe and me toiling for hours to return them to their usual orderly immaculateness. My heart sank. Even my thankfulness for Neal's acknowledged innocence, on the count of the instruments, at least, could not make me feel anything but dismay.

"When the grounds were searched the morning after the murder," Lancy earnestly continued, "we found three sets of footprints in the soft earth of the rose arbor. Two of these were identified as those of Miss Gordon and Duncan Abbott, made when they crossed through the arbor in their search for Mrs. Peake. The other is, so far, unidentified."

"Mr. Orton tells us that, when he ran around the cottages that night in an effort to locate the screamer, he saw a figure come from the rose arbor and turn toward the front of the house. Owing to the density of the fog, Mr. Orton is unable to describe the figure otherwise than as a fleeing form."

"Miss Gordon, running toward

I deliberately stepped behind her chair and held the print before her.

the rear of the house, was run into by a figure which she, too, is unable to describe. We do not know if these two figures are the same, but if not we do feel certain that one of them made the unidentified footprints. Mr. Orton assures us that he believes the figure he saw was that of a man; Miss Gordon does not know if hers was man or woman.

"For the last time we are asking, what you have all been asked before, do you know anything about these footprints? A search is being made for the corresponding shoes, and I warn you that, if they are here, they will be found."

"Has anyone anything to say regarding the footprints?" There was complete silence while Lancy waited for a reply. One and all we twisted uneasily in our chairs. Captain Lancy's solemn voice was enough to make each one of us feel guilty whether we were or not.

When Lancy found that no one intended to speak, he said:

"We have been searching for these shoes for some time. They are too large for any woman here to have worn, provided she wore her own shoes. Bruce Orton's and Dr. Peake's shoes are larger than the prints. Dr. Rutherford's and Joseph Barry's are smaller. It does not seem reasonable to us that the murderer was an absolutely unknown stranger. What was his reason for killing Mrs. Peake, if that were true? We are constrained to believe that the person who went through the arbor wore shoes not his or her own, in an attempt to create an unbreakable alibi. We will now wait until the search is completed before going on to other things."

The detective immediately turned to Chief Forrest and spoke in a tone too low for me to distinguish the words. The rest of us just sat there and waited. I suppose we would have been allowed to talk if we had wished, but so far as I know there wasn't one word said. I couldn't have spoken to save my life. My fingers had moved automatically in taking down Captain Lancy's words. I had to do that to create the proper atmosphere for my act, but my thoughts were wildly jumping here and there while my fingers responded to years of training.

It must have been a half hour later that Lancy's assistant, Scott, whom I had seen once before, entered. He saluted as he came to a step before the table where we were seated, and I sat. "We've searched everywhere, Captain," he said, in a low even voice. "There are no shoes here which match that print."

"Very well, continue," Lancy dismissed. He seemed interested enough in the print and looked closely as I pointed out the break.

"I've never noticed anything of the sort, though I suppose I could have seen the shoe which made it fifty times and not recall it," he said.

His head was close to mine as he examined the print, but the only odor I inhaled was that of good fresh soap and water, so I went on to Pauline, who sat next me. She seemed frightfully nervous and merely shook her head as I showed her the print, and again I received no impression of that fleeting odor which so tantalized my memory.

Coral Easton was next. She had already focussed my attention. I was convinced that, if anywhere, it would be on her that I would find that delicate aroma. I knew, too, that if she had her way, I wouldn't get near enough to smell anything. With a wry mental grin, I deliberately stepped behind her chair and held the print before her, with one arm on either side of her neck.

THE ATLANTIC FERRY

AMERICAN sales of munitions and commodities to Great Britain and France will hardly equal those of the last war, but it is evident that a log jam of orders is loosed by repeal of the arms embargo. The Atlantic ferry will soon be working overtime, in convoy of warships, carrying war supplies eastward and "traveling light" westward.

It is reassuring to know that American ships will not be engaged in that traffic, and thus there will be less likelihood of such incidents as pulled us steadily toward war participation the last time.

Unfortunately much American shipping will be plunged into forced idleness by the cash-and-carry rule for war shipments and the effort to keep American shipping of all kinds out of the war zone. This lack of cargoes may be only temporary. A big opportunity may be developing through increasing trade with Latin America and the Orient. There may be, too, considerable traffic with Canada on the western coast, supplementing that of the Great Lakes.

It is reasonable to expect an intensification of the German campaign against British shipping, by airplanes, surface craft and submarines, as the trans-Atlantic ferry swings into high. It might be Hitler's last big push. If he fails to stop delivery of the limitless supplies now available to the European democracies, he may decide to make peace.

PLENTY OF TURKEY

THE current turkey crop is 22 percent larger than a year ago and 15 percent larger than the record 1936 crop. The task of getting 32,000,000 birds from the growers to the Thanksgiving Day dinner tables of America is a big one, but the marketers are ready for it.

Observers say it may be a good thing that many families and institutions, for one reason or another, will have two Thanksgivings—on November 23 and Nov. 30. Double consumption will help to take care of those extra gobblers. Record supplies are not the problem they might be, however, for turkey is less of a one-day bird than it used to be. Turkey dinners are almost as commonplace as chicken dinners at hotels and are available through a long season. Turkey sandwiches are on restaurant menus almost the year around.

It's just another of the many reasons Americans have for thankfulness.

Anyway, the depression is leaving us with a lot of wonderful roads to drive on until the next depression.

Is Hitler losing his nerve? He hasn't yet ordered German-Americans to move back home.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up groggily, for all night long the dog had been sick and staged a pacing and grunting exhibition in my bedroom. At four by the clock the pup insisted on making a trip to the back yard. Easily was the bathrobe found, but in my sleepy condition could not find the slippers. Didn't even remember my shoes and thought I would go down barefoot, turn her loose at the back door and await her return. Hardly had she left the house until two houses away a dog started barking and the pup went that way in a hurry. I do hope none of the neighbors was looking as I streaked across those two yards in my pajamas with bathrobe flying and my bare feet kicking up frost.

Cold weather is here again and with it the usual inconvenience to wearers of glasses. But I know a way to prevent that fogging. Buy a small cake of castle soap and rub it lightly on each side of each lens. Then, with thumb and forefinger smear that soap all over the glass. Wipe off the soap without moistening it. Your glasses will be cleaner than they have been for a long time and they will not fog for the rest of that day. Simple and cheap.

Wonder why no one ever talks about the war debt anymore? And the thought strikes me that Hitler and Stalin are not such strange bedfellows. Both of them are of the grabbing type, cold-blooded killers and both are crazy and drunk with power. Both are outstanding politicians and as such would sell out their own grandmothers for any slight advantage. The more I read and think of Europe and Asia the more convinced I am that the proper thing for us to do is not get excited about anything that happens there, no matter what.

Gearhart the small grain and J. J. Bennett and George H. Roof the horse show.

Would all the rooms in Hill House be in that condition? If so, I had a mental picture of Chloe and me toiling for hours to return them to their usual orderly immaculateness. My nerves sank. Even my thankfulness for Neal's acknowledged innocence, on the count of the instruments, at least, could not make me feel anything but dismay.

"When the grounds were searched the morning after the murder," Lancy earnestly continued, "we found three sets of footprints in the soft earth of the rose arbor. Two of these were identified as those of Miss Gordon and Duncan Abbott, made when they crossed through the arbor in their search for Mrs. Peake. The other is, so far, unidentified."

"Mr. Orton tells us that, when he ran around the cottages that night in an effort to locate the screamer, he saw a figure come from the rose arbor and turn toward the front of the house. Owing to the density of the fog, Mr. Orton is unable to describe the figure otherwise than as a fleeing form."

"Miss Gordon, running toward the rear of the house, was run into by a figure which she, too, is unable to describe. We do not know if these two figures are the same, but if not we do feel certain that one of them made the unidentified footprints. Mr. Orton assures us that he believes the figure he saw was that of a man; Miss Gordon does not know if hers was man or woman.

"For the last time we are asking, what you have all been asked before, do you know anything about these footprints? A search is being made for the corresponding shoes, and I warn you that, if they are here, they will be found."

"Has anyone anything to say regarding the footprints?" There was complete silence while Lancy waited for a reply. One and all we twisted uneasily in our chairs. Captain Lancy's solemn voice was enough to make each one of us feel guilty whether we were or not.

When Lancy found that no one intended to speak, he said:

"We have been searching for these shoes for some time. They are too large for any woman here to have worn, provided she wore her own shoes. Bruce Orton's and Dr. Peake's shoes are larger than the prints. Dr. Rutherford's and Joseph Barry's are smaller. It does not seem reasonable to us that the murderer was an absolutely unknown stranger. What was his reason for killing Mrs. Peake, if that were true? We are constrained to believe that the person who went through the arbor wore shoes not his or her own, in an attempt to create an unbreakable alibi. We will now wait until the search is completed before going on to other things."

The detective immediately turned to Chief Forrest and spoke in a tone too low for me to distinguish the words. The rest of us just sat there and waited. I suppose we would have been allowed to talk if we had wished, but so far as I know there wasn't one word said. I couldn't have spoken to save my life. My fingers had moved automatically in taking down Captain Lancy's words: I had to do that to create the proper atmosphere for my act, but my thoughts were wildly jumping here and there while my fingers responded to years of training.

It must have been a half hour later that Lancy's assistant, Scott, whom I had seen once before, entered. He saluted as he came to a stop before the table where we three, Captain Lancy, Chief Forrest and I sat.

"We've searched everywhere, Captain," he said, in a low even voice. "There are no shoes here which match that print."

"Very well, continue," Lancy dismissed him, with a curt nod.

I wondered what it was Scott was to continue, for he went out without another word. Lancy spoke to me.

"Miss Gordon, will you show this print to each person here?"

I laid down my pencil and rose to my feet. I was shaking so that I could hardly hold the photograph he handed me, yet I knew everything depended upon my carrying through this job as calmly and nonchalantly as possible.

"This is the photograph of the footprint," he said, as though I had never heard of the thing before. He turned back to the others. "I do not want more than one set of fingerprints on this picture, so Miss Gordon will retain it in her own hands while she shows it to you. This picture has an added point of identification besides the size. If you will notice, there is a peculiar break in the sole at the base of the big toe. That proves that the shoe is an old one, not merely one acquired for the one occasion. Proceed, Miss Gordon. You may point out the break to each one. It is barely possible that at some time, someone of you may have noticed this mark on the sole of the shoe itself, or in another footprint."

I had been worried that someone might suspect a trap in my carrying the print to each one; but after Lancy's long rigmarole I was sure no one would dream of any such thing. Carrying the photograph gripped between finger and thumb of my left hand and a pencil with which to point out the break in my right, I stepped to Dr. Paul, who happened to be the nearest person at that side.

He seemed interested enough in the print and looked closely as I pointed out the break.

"I've never noticed anything of the sort, though I suppose I could have seen the shoe which made it fifty times and not recall it," he said.

His head was close to mine as he examined the print, but the only odor I inhaled was that of good fresh soap and water, so I went on to Pauline, who sat next.

She seemed frightfully nervous and merely shook her head as I showed her the print, and again I received no impression of that fleeting odor which so tantalized my memory.

Coral Easton was next. She had already focussed my attention. I was convinced that, if anywhere, it would be on her that I would find that delicate aroma. I knew, too, that if she had her way, I wouldn't get near enough to smell anything. With a wry mental grin, I deliberately stepped behind her chair and held the print before her, with one arm on either side of her neck.

Latin American Cultures On Monday Club Program

Dr. F. A. Carlson, of Ohio State U., Speaks

Dr. F. A. Carlson, professor of geography, Ohio State University, was guest speaker at the meeting of Monday Club held Monday evening in the club room. Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer introduced Dr. Carlson, a student of Latin America and a frequent visitor of Latin-American countries, who spoke on "Early Cultures of Latin America," illustrating part of his talk with motion pictures of Mexico.

He said in part: "The topic chosen for this year's study by the Monday Club, 'Latin-American Countries,' is extremely timely, for at the present time many articles are being published about trade relations between United States and Latin America and there is a marked interest in those countries. Cultures of Latin America is a broad subject."

His discussion was divided in three parts: 1. Evidence of early culture of Latin America, including peoples and martial culture; 2. Indigenous versus diffusion of culture; 3. Fusion of culture. Evidence of early culture are agricultural plants, cotton and fabrics found in ancient tombs and temples in Mexico, also in Inca Tombs. Cotton was grown and used by the Indians of Peru for centuries prior to the Spanish invasion. Corn, wheat, potatoes and strawberries were cultivated at a very early period. Culture also is shown in arts, weaving, pottery, paintings and architecture.

Astronomy far excelled both that of the ancient Egyptians and Babylonians. For the first time in human history, the Mayans or early Indians had a mathematical system to keep account of chronology and made use of a positional system of writing numbers involving the conception of the abstract mathematical quantity of zero, one of the outstanding achievements of all time. This was 2,000 years ago, at least five centuries before Hindus had developed the fundamentals of Arabic notations in India. Such, Dr. Carlson said, are only a few of the notable examples of early culture of Latin America indigenous to the western hemisphere, all the works of the poor Indian, the first American, whose contributions to civilization we have forgotten or ignored.

The basic culture of much of Latin America is still Indian, Dr. Carlson mentioned in closing his talk. The facts are not absolutely known whether this culture is indigenous or transported from the East, Egypt or India. The opinion of many is that it was brought in by nomadic wandering tribes 2,000 B. C.

His splendid talk was well received by the club members.

The program for the evening was arranged by the History-Geography Division of the club of which Mrs. T. W. Brown is chairman. Miss Reichelderfer is chairman of the program committee for the year.

CHILDREN'S COLDS

Frequent Colds

For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

CALENDAR SAVES BIRD

LOWELL, Mass. — The calendar saved the life of one hen pheasant. Two days before the hunting season opened the game bird flew into a sporting goods store—where gunning equipment was prominently displayed. To comply with the law, the bird was released at the Sportsmen's Club farm.

CHILDREN'S Frequent COLDS

For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

DiMAG TO TAKE ACTRESS BRIDE ON NOVEMBER 19

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Invitations were mailed today for the wedding of Joe Di Maggio, America's No. 1 baseball star, and Dorothy Arnold, blonde movie actress. The nuptial date has been set at Sunday, November 19.

This was a denial of a surprise announcement from Duluth, Minn., attributed to the bride's friends, that the slugging New York Yankee outfielder and Miss Arnold would be wed this morning.

The marriage will be solemnized at St. Peter's and St. Paul's church with Joe's brother, Tom, as best man.

Di Maggio, who spent yesterday fishing for striped bass while his fiancée added to her trousseau, said honeymoon plans were undecided.

The popular young couple met in New York more than a year ago. At that time Miss Arnold was a radio singer. She later went to Hollywood to work in pictures.

BUDDY WALKER, NEGRO BATTLER, THUMPS BOYD

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—"Wild Bill" Boyd, protege of Jack Dempsey, was a much tamer and sadder man today, proving no match for the clouting Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus Negro claimant to Ohio's heavyweight boxing championship. Their fight last night was stopped at the end of the eighth round when Boyd was unable to continue.

Had Boyd's courage and ability to take it been matched by his fighting ability, he might well have been the winner. But he was outclassed by the undefeated Columbus lad, who shows more skill every time he goes to the fistic wars.

Walker was unable to floor Boyd, but the Alabama mauler was "advised" to quit at the end of the eighth because of a badly-cut face. Walker came in at 192, seven pounds more than Boyd.

About This And That In Many Sports

Tiger athletes, with only a week remaining in their football schedule, are looking forward to the basketball season during which they will engage in their most energetic schedule in a long while. Practice is expected to start sometime during the week after the Hillsboro grid game which is scheduled Friday night on the Highland County field. Faculty Manager Virgil Cress announced the following schedule with a couple of open dates yet to fill: December 1, at Amanda; December 8, Greenfield; December 12, at Lancaster; December 15, at Chillicothe; December 21, Troy; December 22, at Hillsboro; January 5, at Washington C. H.; January 9, Wilmington; January 12, open; January 16, at Clarksburg; January 19, Hilliards; January 23, Ashville; January 26, Hillsboro; February 2, at Wilmington; February 9, Washington C. H.; February 16, open; February 23, at Greenfield, and March 1, at Upper Arlington.

Tiger followers are expecting to see a capable team take the court this year although Warren Bumgarner, crack guard, is gone, and so is Bill Heffner, a letterman. Returning are Whitey Davis and Harold Smith to handle the forwards, Paul Walters to take over the center spot, and Bob Bowsher to play a guard. Clark Martin and Jim Callahan, reserves from last year, must be considered, and the large squad of sophomores, including Joe Staley, Frank Gelb, Bob Moon, Gerald Ayers, Harry Clifton, Bob Kline, Don Valentine, John Woods and Paul Jackson, must rate some consideration.

Cress is busy working on the football schedule which next year will see Frankfort not on the list of games because of the treatment afforded for the Tigers in their game there a few weeks ago. West Jefferson, Holy Rosary, Bremen and Lancaster will provide out-of-the-league contests with Groveport being considered for the Frankfort spot along with New Lexington and a couple of other schools which might add a little new color to the schedule. Of course, Greenfield, Wilmington, Hillsboro and Washington C. H. will be met.

The annual Kiwanis Club football banquet will be conducted next Monday evening in the New American Hotel Coffee Shop, Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong and the Tiger football lettermen being invited to attend. Tom Renick, who is in charge of the program, is trying to obtain an outstanding speaker from Ohio State University and some motion pictures of a couple of State's games, but not that with Cornell.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—"Wild Bill" Boyd, protege of Jack Dempsey, was a much tamer and sadder man today, proving no match for the clouting Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus Negro claimant to Ohio's heavyweight boxing championship. Their fight last night was stopped at the end of the eighth round when Boyd was unable to continue.

Had Boyd's courage and ability to take it been matched by his fighting ability, he might well have been the winner. But he was outclassed by the undefeated Columbus lad, who shows more skill every time he goes to the fistic wars.

Walker was unable to floor Boyd, but the Alabama mauler was "advised" to quit at the end of the eighth because of a badly-cut face. Walker came in at 192, seven pounds more than Boyd.

WILDCAT SCHOOL LAUDS CHICAGO STAR'S RUNNING

DeCorrevont Has Arrived, Northwestern Believes; Speed Applauded

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 — Out on the Northwestern campus today they were telling the story of how the Wildcats finally shook loose that "modern Frank Merriwell"—Bill De Correvont, a quiet young footballer who has received more than his share of publicity. Until Saturday when De Correvont blasted his way out of a trick formation and raced 61 yards for a winning touchdown against Minnesota, the young man was considered something of a bust.

Two years ago, a dozen colleges were bidding for his services after he left Austin High School in Chicago with an incredible record. During his career De Correvont was almost unstoppable on running plays and he was a good passer and kicker. But the blond halfback was only passable as a freshman at Evans-ton and this year he certainly did nothing to distinguish himself in Northwestern's early games.

Bill in Key Spot

Saturday, however, De Correvont ran from the key spot of the Wildcats' most razzle-dazzle formation. He was at the left wing-back, 217-pound Don Clawson was at the tailback and Dick Richards and Floyd Chambers were to the right. Clawson took the ball from center and went into a fine deceptive spin, apparently handing the ball to Chambers but really giving it to De Correvont who, with tremendous speed, went around Minnesota's left end. Running in advance, Richards made a beautiful block to take Earl Ohlgren, Gopher left end, out of the play.

In a twinkling, De Correvont had gone over the line of scrimmage and was almost in the clear with only George Franck, one of the fastest men in the conference, left to beat him off.

Franck went after De Correvont and it was nip and tuck to see which was the faster, but gradually De Correvont drew away and Franck was hopelessly outrun when the last chalk mark had been reached.

Coach Lynn Waldorf was asked today about De Correvont's burst of speed and he threw some light on the situation when he said:

"Bill has a deceptive pace and it is not always clear just how fast he is running. But he has been clocked in 9 8/10 seconds in a hundred yard dash. And that is real speed. He is going to give our conference foes during the next two years a lot of trouble."

BUCKS STOPPED HIM!

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Because of the fame of Paul Christman of "old Mizou" as a passer, Saturday's Missouri-N. Y. U. game was shaping up today as one of the year's big intersectional encounters. Coach Mal Stevens of N. Y. U. was informed by his scouts that nothing thus far said of Christman has been exaggerated.

DiMAG TO TAKE ACTRESS BRIDE ON NOVEMBER 19

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Invitations were mailed today for the wedding of Joe Di Maggio, America's No. 1 baseball star, and Dorothy Arnold, blonde movie actress. The nuptial date has been set at Sunday, November 19.

This was a denial of a surprise announcement from Duluth, Minn., attributed to the bride's friends, that the slugging New York Yankee outfielder and Miss Arnold would be wed this morning.

The marriage will be solemnized at St. Peter's and St. Paul's church with Joe's brother, Tom, as best man.

Di Maggio, who spent yesterday fishing for striped bass while his fiancée added to her trousseau, said honeymoon plans were undecided.

The popular young couple met in New York more than a year ago. At that time Miss Arnold was a radio singer. She later went to Hollywood to work in pictures.

B. P. O. Elks keggers won a torrid two out of three match Monday evening from the Coca Cola in the City All-Star League. However, the Coca Cola couldn't keep up the pace and dropped to 832 and 703 in their last two efforts.

IRISH PREPARE TO MEET IOWA IN BIG CONTEST

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 7.—Unbeaten Notre Dame may face one of its greatest tests Saturday against Iowa, due to an injury riddled lineup. Listed as doubtful starters today were Lou Zontini, star blocking back, who has a sore shoulder; Tackles Tom Gallagher and Tad Harvey, still nursing old hurts, and Bud Kerr, first string left end, who had a kidney infection.

IOWA CITY Ia., Nov. 7.—Winners of four of their first five games, Iowa's Hawkeyes, acutely "unset conscious," knuckled down to serious work today in the hope of turning back a favored and undefeated Notre Dame eleven Saturday. The Hawkeyes to date boast their best record in many years.

MICHIGAN'S EVASHEVSKI MAY BE ON SIDELINES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7.—Forest Evashevski, Michigan's quarterback mainstay who suffered a bruised ankle in the upset by Illinois last week, may be out of action against Minnesota this week, it was feared today. Adding to the Wolverines' woes was the fact that Evashevski's alternate, Harry Kohl, also was on the sidelines with a foot infection.

About This And That In Many Sports

Tiger athletes, with only a week remaining in their football schedule, are looking forward to the basketball season during which they will engage in their most energetic schedule in a long while. Practice is expected to start sometime during the week after the Hillsboro grid game which is scheduled Friday night on the Highland County field. Faculty Manager Virgil Cress announced the following schedule with a couple of open dates yet to fill: December 1, at Amanda; December 8, Greenfield; December 12, at Lancaster; December 15, at Chillicothe; December 21, Troy; December 22, at Hillsboro; January 5, at Washington C. H.; January 9, Wilmington; January 12, open; January 16, at Clarksville; January 19, Hillsboro; January 23, Ashville; January 26, Hillsboro; February 2, at Wilmington; February 9, Washington C. H.; February 16, open; February 23, at Greenfield, and March 1, at Upper Arlington ***

Tiger followers are expected to see a capable team take the court this year although Warren Bumgarner, crack guard, is gone, and so is Bill Heffner, a letterman. Returning are Whitey Davis and Harold Smith to handle the forwards, Paul Walters to take over the center spot, and Bob Bowsher to play a guard. Clark Martin and Jim Callahan, reserves from last year, must be considered, and the large squad of sophomores, including Joe Staley, Frank Gelb, Bob Moon, Gerald Ayers, Harry Clifton, Bob Kline, Don Valentine, John Woods and Paul Jackson, must rate some consideration.

Cress is busy working on the football schedule which next year will see Frankfort not on the list of games because of the treatment afforded for the Tigers in their game there a few weeks ago. West Jefferson, Holy Rosary, Bremen and Lancaster will provide out-of-the-league contests with Groveport being considered for the Frankfort spot along with New Lexington and a couple of other schools which might add a little new color to the schedule. Of course, Greenfield, Wilmington, Hillsboro and Washington C. H. will be met.

The annual Kiwanis Club football banquet will be conducted next Monday evening in the New American Hotel Coffee Shop. Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong and the Tiger football lettermen being invited to attend. Tom Renick, who is in charge of the program, is trying to obtain an outstanding speaker from Ohio State University and some motion pictures of a couple of state's games, but not that with Cornell.

LIBRARY REQUESTS BUDGET INCREASE TO PROVIDE MORE EFFICIENT SERVICE

TRUSTEES SEEK APPROPRIATION ABOVE $13,000

Comparative Cost Of Work Cited; Truck's Service Curtailed At Present

PER CAPITA DATA QUOTED

Commission To Decide On Plea; Circulation Of Institution Listed

The Public Library has opened a campaign to obtain a boost in its appropriation from the Pickaway County Budget Commission for 1940 to purchase additional supplies of books and provide more efficient service to customers.

An increase of $3,600 in the budget for 1940 is asked by the Library Trustees. The appropriation for 1939 was $9,500. The request for next year is $13,100.

Daniel Pfoutz, book truck librarian who will become head librarian next week, explains that circulation on the book truck has had to be limited due to the lack of sufficient books to meet requests. Lack of funds has prevented purchasing new book supplies.

Mr. Pfoutz explained that the libraries in Ohio are supported by a share of the tax on intangible property, not real estate. The basis of figuring library costs, he pointed out, is estimated on a per capita basis or the amount of tax money received per person in the area served by the library. The standard amount set by the American Library Association is $1 per capita. During 1939 the library received about 34 cents per capita. It distributed 107,837 books through the library in Circleville and the book truck. A total of 74,299 books was distributed by the book truck alone.

New Books Available
The increase in the budget, it was pointed out, would provide funds for purchasing new books, a greater amount of reference material and mean more efficient service to customers.

Those interested in boosting the library service are asked to confer with budget commission members for approval of the increase. Members of the budget commission are George E. Gerhardt, prosecutor; Forrest Short, auditor, and Robert Colville, treasurer.

A chart prepared by Mr. Pfoutz, listing other Ohio counties comparable in size to Pickaway County, shows Pickaway the lowest on the per capita cost of library service. Delaware County's per capita cost is 44 cents, Van Wert 70 cents, Williams 62 cents and Huron 73 cents. The population of Pickaway County is 27,238, Delaware 26,016, Van Wert 26,273, Williams 24,316 and Huron 33,700. Pickaway County has the highest listing of total wealth per capita at $1,623. Delaware is the lowest in the group with $1,182.

Per Capita Cost Low
The circulation report for the Public Library shows the distribution was about four books per capita at an expense of eight cents a book on the per capita basis. This is a low figure in comparison with other counties of similar size.

MANY OHIO COUNTIES VOTING ON MAYORS, OTHER ISSUES

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—Voters streamed to the polls today in all of Ohio's 88 counties to decide important local issues and to elect mayors and other officials in 110 cities and 750 villages, as well as to decide matters of statewide importance.

Although forced from the limelight by attention commended by the Bigelow "50-at-60" pension proposal, various local issues and battles for public offices confronted citizens in each political subdivision.

It was an off year so far as state offices were concerned. A complete slate, from governor on down, will be elected next year.

Foremost among the many mayoralty contests were those in Cleveland and Columbus. In each city the voters were choosing between two Republicans for mayor, this situation being made possible by non-partisan primary election.

260,000 May Vote
The metropolis on the lake was expected to cast 260,000 votes for the mayoralty candidates, Harold H. Burton, seeking a third term, and John E. O'Connell, whom most observers gave only an outside chance to win. Candidates for council, school board and municipal judges also were voted on in Cleveland.

Principal local issues in Cuyahoga County were a 3.4 mill relief levy, a $4,500,000 county road bond issue, and a one-tenth mill levy for improving the Cleveland Metropolitan Park District. Cleveland also was to decide whether to issue $3,000,000 in bonds for street and bridge construction.

In Columbus two Republicans contesting for mayor were the incumbent, Myron B. Gessaman, and Floyd F. Green, a former councilman. Green had the support of the Republican organization.

With $5,000 expected to visit the polls, Columbus voters also balloted on a one-mill levy, and a three-quarter mill levy for hospitalization of indigents.

Throughout the state proposed local bond issues totaling $25,000,000 were being voted on, county-wide tax levies in 26 counties, and 510 district tax levies in 82 counties.

Trustees and clerks were being elected in 2700 townships, in addition to 500 justices of the peace and 4,000 school board members.

New Toledo Council
Toledo election officials anticipated a total vote of 75,000 or more, despite the fact that two years ago only 60,000 of the 129,000 registered voters went to the polls. Toledo voters were selecting a new city council of nine members, two judges, a municipal court clerk and two school board members, and were passing upon a special school levy.

There was no relief levy on the ballot there despite the fact that Toledo has been facing a relief crisis for months.

In Akron, interest was focused on the outcome of the heated mayoralty race between Mayor Lee D. Schroy (R), seeking his third term, and State Rep. Wilford B. Bixler (D).

Schroy asked to be returned to office to continue his "forward-looking, business-like administration." Bixler charged that Republican city officials had failed to provide adequate funds for relief and garbage collection and had "protected slot machine operators."

Akron also was to vote on a proposed $5,200,000 work relief bond issue, which would be matched with $15,600,000 in federal funds to relieve unemployment.

Youngstown was to choose its mayor from a list of seven candidates. They were Tom L. Barrowman, Arthur H. Williams, Fred G. Weimer, John W. Powers, Judge William B. Spagnola, Guy T. Ohl, Fred Griffiths and Patrick Vahey. Other city officials also were to be named.

With the exception of state questions, Canton was interested only in the mayoralty race and a few other city offices. Mayor Edward S. Folk sought return to office on his "economy program" and was opposed by Charles W. Weeks, former deputy county auditor, and a Democrat. A total of 75,000 voters were expected in Stark County.

Cincinnati Busy
Proposed renewal of a 2.2-mill levy for school purposes and a heated race for nine posts in city council was expected to bring out a heavy vote in Cincinnati. A Republican slate sought to elect a majority of its candidates over the Charterites.

An unusually heavy vote was expected in the Ohio River city in view of the fact that it was the residence of Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, sponsor of the pension plan.

County Awaits City's Action On Fire Truck
The cooperative fire truck program including the city, county and 10 townships was progressing slowly Tuesday.

County commissioners announced Monday that no action on a definite appropriation would be taken until some information was received as to whether the city is all set to work out its part of the program.

Councilmen, meeting Wednesday night, instructed Carl C. Leist, solicitor, to check legal phases of the city's participating in the set-up. Plans were to have the city maintain, house and man the truck. In return the city could use the truck on dangerous city fires.

Councilmen wondered who would be liable if the truck was involved in a collision when operated by city employees.

Commissioners said they believed some definite information should be received from the city before they would make an appropriation.

Again the preliminary work is going forward toward the erection of a church building for the Church of Christ in Christian Union congregation. The location is on North Long Street beyond the Ashville corporation line.

A force of men have been at work for the past few nights re-furnishing the surface of the walls of the M. E. church basement where they serve chicken pie this time of the year. The 16th, they say, is the date set for this event.

TRUSTEES SEEK APPROPRIATION ABOVE $13,000

Comparative Cost Of Work Cited; Truck's Service Curtailed At Present

PER CAPITA DATA QUOTED

Commission To Decide On Plea; Circulation Of Institution Listed

The Public Library has opened a campaign to obtain a boost in its appropriation from the Pickaway County Budget Commission for 1940 to purchase additional supplies of books and provide more efficient service to customers.

An increase of $3,600 in the budget for 1940 is asked by the Library Trustees. The appropriation for 1939 was $9,500. The request for next year is $13,100.

Daniel Pfoutz, book truck librarian who will become head librarian next week, explains that circulation on the book truck has had to be limited due to the lack of sufficient books to meet requests. Lack of funds has prevented purchasing new book supplies.

Mr. Pfoutz explained that the libraries in Ohio are supported by a share of the tax on intangible property, not real estate. The basis of figuring library costs, he pointed out, is estimated on a per capita basis or the amount of tax money received per person in the area served by the library. The standard amount set by the American Library Association is $1 per capita. During 1939 the library received about 34 cents per capita. It distributed 107,837 books through the library in Circleville and the book truck. A total of 74,299 books was distributed by the book truck alone.

New Books Available

The increase in the budget, it was pointed out, would provide funds for purchasing new books, a greater amount of reference material and mean more efficient service to customers.

Those interested in boosting the library service are asked to confer with budget commission members for approval of the increase. Members of the budget commission are George E. Gerhardt, prosecutor; Forrest Short, auditor, and Robert Colville, treasurer.

A chart prepared by Mr. Pfoutz, listing other Ohio counties comparable in size to Pickaway County, shows Pickaway the lowest on the per capita cost of library service. Delaware County's per capita cost is 44 cents, Van Wert 70 cents, Williams 62 cents and Huron 73 cents. The population of Pickaway County is 27,238, Delaware 26,016, Van Wert 26,273, Williams 24,316 and Huron 33,700. Pickaway County has the highest listing of total wealth per capita at $1,623. Delaware is the lowest in the group with $1,182.

Per Capita Cost Low

The circulation report for the Public Library shows the distribution of books as follows:

Category	Books
Children's	10,000
General	15,000
Reference	5,000
Periodicals	2,000
Truck	10,000
Total	42,000

MANY OHIO COUNTIES VOTING ON MAYORS, OTHER ISSUES

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—Voters streamed to the polls today in all of Ohio's 88 counties to decide important local issues and to elect mayors and other officials in 110 cities and 750 villages, as well as to decide matters of statewide importance.

Although forced from the limelight by attention commended by the Bigelow "50-at-60" pension proposal, various local issues and battles for public offices confronted citizens in each political subdivision.

It was an off year so far as state offices were concerned. A complete slate, from governor on down, will be elected next year.

Foremost among the many mayoral contests were those in Cleveland and Columbus. In each city the voters were choosing between two Republicans for mayor, this situation being made possible by non-partisan primary election.

260,000 May Vote

The metropolis on the lake was expected to cast 260,000 votes for the mayoralty candidates, Harold H. Burton, seeking a third term, and John E. O'Connell, whom most observers gave only an outside chance to win. Candidates for council, school board and municipal judges also were voted on in Cleveland.

Principal local issues in Cuyahoga County were a 3.4 mill relief levy, a $4,500,000 county road bond issue, and a one-tenth mill levy for improving the Cleveland Metropolitan Park District. Cleveland also was to decide whether to issue $3,000,000 in bonds for street and bridge construction.

In Columbus two Republicans contesting for mayor were the incumbent, Myron B. Gessaman, and Floyd F. Green, a former councilman. Green had the support of the Republican organization.

With $5,000 expected to visit the polls, Columbus voters also balloted on a one-mill levy, and a three-quarter mill levy for hospitalization of indigents.

Throughout the state proposed local bond issues totaling $25,000,000 were being voted on, county-wide tax levies in 26 counties, and 510 district tax levies in 82 counties.

Trustees and clerks were being elected in 2700 townships, in addition to 500 justices of the peace and 4,000 school board members.

New Toledo Council

Toledo election officials anticipated a total vote of 75,000 or more, despite the fact that two years ago only 60,000 of the 129,000 registered voters went to the polls. Toledo voters were selecting a new city council of nine members, two judges, a municipal court clerk and two school board members, and were passing upon a special school levy.

There was no relief levy on the ballot there despite the fact that Toledo has been facing a relief crisis for months.

In Akron, interest was focused on the outcome of the heated mayoralty race between Mayor Lee D. Schroy (R), seeking his third term, and State Rep. Wilford B. Bixler (D).

Schroy asked to be returned to office to continue his "forward-looking, business-like administration." Bixler charged that Republican city officials had failed to provide adequate funds for relief and garbage collection and had "protected slot machine operators."

Akron also was to vote on a proposed $5,200,000 work relief bond issue, which would be matched with $15,600,000 in federal funds to relieve unemployment.

Youngstown was to choose its mayor from a list of seven candidates. They were Tom L. Barrowman, Arthur H. Williams, Fred G. Weimer, John W. Powers, Judge William B. Spagnola, Guy T. Ohl, Fred Griffiths and Patrick Vahey. Other city officials also were to be named.

With the exception of state questions, Canton was interested only in the mayoralty race and a few other city offices. Mayor Edward S. Folk sought return to office on his "economy program" and was opposed by Charles W. Weeks, former deputy county auditor, and a Democrat. A total of 75,000 voters were expected in Stark County.

COFFILL DIVORCE

Suit for divorce and alimony charging neglect of duty was filed in Common Pleas Court Monday by Lillie Coffill, Williamsport, by her next friend, John Morgan, against Eugene Coffill, Rushville. They were married August 27, 1938, the petition says, and have one child.

bution was about four books per capita at an expense of eight cents a book on the per capita basis. This is a low figure in comparison with other counties of similar size.

PERRY COUNTEAN KILLS WIFE, SHOOTS HIMSELF

THORNTON, Nov. 7.—A verdict of murder and suicide was returned today by Perry County Coroner William Moody in the fatal shooting of H. L. Collins, 77, old-age pensioner, and his 68-year-old wife.

Moody said Collins shot his wife with a 22-caliber revolver as she slept and then fired a shotgun blast through his own head. No motive could be given by friends and neighbors of the aged couple, who were reported in "fairly good" health.

HUNTED TOO EARLY

Charles Pugsley, Circleville Route 5, was fined $25 and costs in B. T. Hedges' justice of peace court Monday night on a charge of taking game in closed season. The arrest was made by Clarence Francis and Charles Carter, conservation officers. Pugsley had one rabbit when he was arrested.

COUNTY AWAITS CITY'S ACTION ON FIRE TRUCK

The cooperative fire truck program including the city, county and 10 townships was progressing slowly Tuesday.

County commissioners announced Monday that no action on a definite appropriation would be taken until some information was received as to whether the city is all set to work out its part of the program.

Councilmen, meeting Wednesday night, instructed Carl C. Leist, solicitor, to check legal phases of the city's participating in the set-up. Plans were to have the city maintain, house and man the truck. In return the city could use the truck on dangerous city fires. Councilmen wondered who would be liable if the truck was involved in a collision when operated by city employees.

Commissioners said they believed some definite information should be received from the city before they would make an appropriation.

THREE CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES FROM OIL STOVE

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 7.—Three children and their godmother were burned to death early today when an exploding oil stove created an inferno of their small two-story house.

The dead were Margaret Harris, 4, Raymond, 6, and Dorothy, 17, and their godmother, Ann Kinkberger, 20. Edward Harris, the father, was powerless to rescue them because of his wooden leg. A son, Robert, 16, leaped from a second floor window, badly burned.

Ashville Will Regulate Bicycles With New Law

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

The village council with the "whole family" present was in session Monday evening and besides paying the regular grist of bills, passed an ordinance regulating the operation of bicycles on the streets and sidewalks of the village. Lights must be attached to the machines when operated in the night season. And at all times reckless operation is sure to meet with arrest and punishment. Now, then, you fine lot of youngsters, slow down and be careful with your wheeling. The very name of having been arrested is not so good for any lad. And that mean old Ashville housegoose is a bad place for even a grownup to be.

Again the preliminary work is going forward toward the erection of a church building for the Church of Christ in Christian Union congregation. The location is on North Long Street beyond the Ashville corporation line.

A force of men have been at work for the past few nights re-finish the surface of the walls of the M. E. church basement where they serve chicken pie this time of the year. The 16th, they say, is the date set for this event.

Merrill Valentine, wife and little Miss Sherry were Sunday guests at the home of Hal and Mrs. Reed. . . . Wellington, and family moved yesterday to the Henry-Gloyd dwelling on Cromley Street.

While you are reading this item there is yet time enough to hustle on those duds, if any, and go vote against that one you've waited a long while to get even with. But maybe you don't do your voting this way and that's fine if this be true. The Secretary of State has issued orders to all election boards to count the ballots containing the constitutional amendments, first, so prepare for a near midnight wait and that nice little party will fit in just right and dull time turned into pleasure.

Warren Brown, wife and Master Richard Earle, removed from Columbus to Ashville Saturday and occupy the dwelling in West Main Street recently vacated by Delmer and Mrs. White who now occupy their own new home in East Lawn addition.

Fred Curry who was given the contract by the village council for the erection of the park shelter house, has begun work on it. The structure dimensions are 40x80 feet.

TOO YOUNG FOR MAYOR

NASHUA, N. H.—Martin J. Hansberry, Jr., 21, must wait another year before he runs for mayor of Nashua. Under a court ruling Hansberry, who became of age several months ago, cannot file nomination papers until his name appears on the voting list. A similar ruling affected James Lagios, assessor candidate one month after becoming naturalized.
